

MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

BRYAN & MARCI COBLE

CHICAGO, IL

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM
How North Carolina Baptists Support Missions

SEPTEMBER 27, 2020

Today we're going to pray for Bryan and Marci Coble who are planting a new church called Sow Chicago Community Church in the northwest portion of Chicago. The three biggest ethnic groups around their church are Hispanics, Serbians and Poles, making the area truly diverse. Sadly, most people in northwest Chicago have one thing in common — they do not have a relationship with Jesus. Only about 2% of people in the area attend Bible-based churches.

Bryan and Marci have been helping in local schools, working with community councils and holding block parties in order to build relationships in their community. Slowly but surely, they have begun to be accepted as locals, just like the many other newcomers.

As we support Bryan and Marci through giving to the Cooperative Program, let's pray that God would give them the ability to lead their church to reach many for Christ. Pray for many deep, rich relationships to flourish in their community and that God would continue to open doors for Sow Chicago Community Church as they share the gospel throughout Chicago.

Thank you for your church's giving through the Cooperative Program.

MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

BRYAN & MARCI COBLE

CHICAGO, IL

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM
How North Carolina Baptists Support Missions

SEPTEMBER 27, 2020

Today we're going to pray for Bryan and Marci Coble who are planting a new church called Sow Chicago Community Church in the northwest portion of Chicago. The three biggest ethnic groups around their church are Hispanics, Serbians and Poles, making the area truly diverse. Sadly, most people in northwest Chicago have one thing in common — they do not have a relationship with Jesus. Only about 2% of people in the area attend Bible-based churches.

Bryan and Marci have been helping in local schools, working with community councils and holding block parties in order to build relationships in their community. Slowly but surely, they have begun to be accepted as locals, just like the many other newcomers.

As we support Bryan and Marci through giving to the Cooperative Program, let's pray that God would give them the ability to lead their church to reach many for Christ. Pray for many deep, rich relationships to flourish in their community and that God would continue to open doors for Sow Chicago Community Church as they share the gospel throughout Chicago.

Thank you for your church's giving through the Cooperative Program.