

MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

TODD & KATIE MILLER

THAILAND

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM
How North Carolina Baptist Support Missions

NOVEMBER 1, 2020

Todd and Katie Miller are International Mission Board missionaries serving in eastern Thailand, near the border of Myanmar, once called Burma. Their ministry seeks to witness to the Shan people. This people group makes up a sizeable 10% of the country of Myanmar's population. In recent years they have clashed with the Myanmar government, resulting in thousands of people moving to Thailand. The Shan people are often living in refugee camps, searching for jobs and better conditions.

Our church supports the Millers through our Cooperative Program giving. Most Shan people are Buddhists, and Todd and Katie often see them visiting temples to ask for blessings. Thankfully, some of the Shans have started to hear the gospel through the work of missionaries like Todd and Katie. When the Millers drove into a village recently, a man flagged them down and asked them to stop. He pleaded with them to come to his home and tell him about Jesus. They shared the gospel with him, and he prayed to receive Christ!

Today let's ask God to keep Todd and Katie and their three children safe as they serve in Thailand and that they will reach many of the Shan people with the good news of the gospel.

Thank you for your church's giving through the Cooperative Program.

MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

TODD & KATIE MILLER

THAILAND

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM
How North Carolina Baptist Support Missions

NOVEMBER 1, 2020

Todd and Katie Miller are International Mission Board missionaries serving in eastern Thailand, near the border of Myanmar, once called Burma. Their ministry seeks to witness to the Shan people. This people group makes up a sizeable 10% of the country of Myanmar's population. In recent years they have clashed with the Myanmar government, resulting in thousands of people moving to Thailand. The Shan people are often living in refugee camps, searching for jobs and better conditions.

Our church supports the Millers through our Cooperative Program giving. Most Shan people are Buddhists, and Todd and Katie often see them visiting temples to ask for blessings. Thankfully, some of the Shans have started to hear the gospel through the work of missionaries like Todd and Katie. When the Millers drove into a village recently, a man flagged them down and asked them to stop. He pleaded with them to come to his home and tell him about Jesus. They shared the gospel with him, and he prayed to receive Christ!

Today let's ask God to keep Todd and Katie and their three children safe as they serve in Thailand and that they will reach many of the Shan people with the good news of the gospel.

Thank you for your church's giving through the Cooperative Program.