

MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

DOUG & DANA ROBERTS

MEXICO

NOVEMBER 15, 2020

Doug and Dana Roberts are North American Mission Board missionaries who serve in Mexico. There are many missionaries who are reaching Spanish-speaking Mexicans in Mexico, but Doug and Dana serve in central Mexico among the Central Nahuatl (nah-WAT-ul) people. The Nahuatl are descendants of the Aztec Native Americans who ruled what is now called Mexico long before Europeans arrived.

The Nahuatl people have their own language and culture. Most of them operate small family farms or raise livestock, while some of the men do construction work in other parts of Mexico. Sadly, there are few missionaries serving the Nahuatl people. Oftentimes their towns have no church and little to no gospel presence.

Doug and Dana are pioneers by starting a church among the Nahuatl people. Recently, four new believers were baptized at Doug and Dana's new church. Let's pray for our missionaries. Pray that Doug and Dana will lead the many lost people to faith in Christ and that God will call many more missionaries to central Mexico so that all the Nahuatl people can hear the gospel.

Thank you for your church's giving through the Cooperative Program.
